Women Composers to Frankfurt

6. International Scholarship 2024

In cooperation with the Frankfurt University of Music and Performing Arts, Institute for Contemporary Music (IzM), the Archive of Women and Music (Archiv Frau und Musik) announces a three-month residency (from September to November 2024) for a female composer.

Applicants of all ages and nationalities are invited to apply. The successful applicant will be chosen by a panel of experts in the field of contemporary music.

A chamber music work is to be composed during the residency.

Closing date for applications is February 26, 2024.

Any recourse to courts of law is excluded.

Supporting Programme and Musical Events

Additional possibility of cooperation with the school project »Response« of the HfMDK, in which children and young people encounter contemporary music. Here, the children and young people respond with their own improvisations and compositions to a work by the scholarship holder. The school class develops its own »answer« to a work of the scholarship holder. The result can also be presented at the final concert.

November 2024: Final concert with the première of the newly composed piece of chamber music and optionally the work developed in the school project.

The further supporting program will be arranged in consultation with the scholarship holder.

Application

Application documents must include an informal cover letter, the composer's résumé, a catalogue of works and the scores of two works for chamber music ensembles or larger ensembles (with recordings if possible). The documents have to be uploaded into the Archive's cloud storage system.

The winner of the residency will be announced end of March.
